

So you want to do a JOB SHADOW?

Scoular is offering a job shadow to sophomores and juniors, providing selected students with an opportunity to learn more about agricultural commodity merchandising careers from Scoular employees who do the job each and every day.

Selected students will:

- Join Scoular leaders for dinner the evening before the job shadow
- Spend the day at a Scoular location talking to merchandisers
- Learn about commodity markets, grain-handling operations, and working at Scoular

"I have always had an interest in Scoular, but after the job shadow experience and learning more about the company, my interest increased. I could see how excited and passionate the employees are about The Scoular Company – and that is something you don't see a lot with larger-scale companies."

– Gylee Martin | Kansas State University '15

"The amount of training, time, and ultimately, money, Scoular invests into its human capital shows that Scoular cares about their employees and wants them to become the best. The intellectually nourishing and free environment seems very conducive for people to work on stimulating 'trading puzzles'. It's the type of environment that allows people to constantly improve."

– Zach Stanton | Iowa State University '15